Preparation for Adulthood Feedback Survey – Have your voice heard!

Have you taken part in the Preparation for Adulthood Multi-Disciplinary Protocol Feedback survey? We have now been live for a month and have received some positive feedback that suggests that we are on the right path.

To ensure that we create a comprehensive document that supports our young people transitioning into adulthood, we would really appreciate it if you could take part in the survey.

The survey closes on the 27th November 2020 so follow the link and have your say.

Council for Disabled Children

Council for Disabled Children (CDC) have created a Family Support page on its website, which includes information about the new government restrictions.

Parents or carers of disabled children may continue to access respite care to support them in caring for their disabled child. Where activities are being provided solely for this purpose, they are able to continue.

What does it mean for families?

For families the guidance sets out that:

- Parents are able to form a childcare bubble with another household for the purposes of informal childcare, where the child is 13 or under
- Out of school activities and wraparound care can continue for registered childcare and to provide respite care, including for vulnerable children
- Parents or carers of disabled children may continue to access respite care to support them in caring for their disabled child
- Early years settings and childminders remain open, and parents of under-5s can continue to use these settings as normal
- Parents will be able to access other childcare activities (including wraparound care) where reasonably necessary to enable parents to work, seek work, attend education or training, or for the purposes of respite care for carers
- Youth support services, including 1-1 youth work and support groups, may also continue to operate
- Early years, schools and other education settings continue to operate as before
- Home tutoring and elective home education can continue to operate.

Online safety for your child: tips and useful website links

By Anna Ljumovic, School Improvement Adviser and safeguarding trainer

I hope these tips will help you in supporting your child online and help you in supporting them to develop confident use of the internet and to do so safely.

Most of my tips are from the NSPCC site but I have added a couple of points in case they are of use. Below the tips are links to useful websites. I can recommend the ThinkUKnow site which is funded by the National Crime Agency to develop online safety for children.

- Think about the language of the internet – what does it mean? Help your child understand what the key terms mean. Are the key messages in language that is too complex to understand and could they be made more straightforward? (Such as 'Don't share personal information on line – what does that mean and how could it be made clearer and easier to understand?

- Reassure your child that you're interested in their life, offline and online. Recognise that they may be using the internet to research homework as well talking to their friends
- Ask your child to show you what they enjoy doing online or apps they're using so you can understand them
- Be positive but also open about anything you are worried about. You could say "I think this site's really good" or "I'm a little worried about things I've seen here"
- Ask them if they're worried about anything, and let them know they can come to you
- Ask them about their friends online and how they know they are who they say they are.
- Listen for the reasons why your child wants to use apps or sites you don't think are suitable, so you can talk about these together
- Ask your child what they think is okay for children of different ages so they feel involved in the decision making
- In addition of course, keep your parental controls up to date
- Have conversations about "what is a friend" and "who is a friend" to help your child distinguish between them. You know your child best so try to find a comparison that may help them understand that someone who they don't know is not an instant friend. It could be compared, for example, to someone trying to sell you something. What is the cost? etc
- By being open about wanting to help, encourage a 'Here to help' 'Let's try together' and "Better check first". approach
- Familiarise yourself with how your child can report something – it is very easy! You will see the logo on the Child Exploitation and Online Safety (CEOP) site - <https://www.ceop.police.uk/safety-centre/> Look for the logo!

Children's Occupational Therapy

The role of the children's occupational therapist is to maximise each child's individual potential at home, school and at play, working in partnership with the child, their family and other professionals.

In Croydon, the Children's Occupational Therapy Service is based at the Crystal Children's Development Centre, however the occupational therapists work in a variety of settings including mainstream and special schools, nurseries, playgroups, the child's home and Croydon University Hospital. Our team of children's occupational therapists have specialist skills and training to enable them to provide an assessment and intervention service aimed at meeting each child's individual needs.

We are continuing to see children face to face including virtual workshops throughout these challenging times.

We have an open referral process, any professional, agency or parent/carers are able to refer to our service. Please contact 020 8274 6854 or email ch-tr.croydonchildrensot@nhs.net to request a referral form and referral criteria.

The general occupational therapy service will work with children who have special needs in the following areas:

- Co-ordination difficulties (particularly fine motor coordination), including developmental coordination disorder
- Complex handwriting difficulties
- Sensory processing
- Self care, such as feeding and dressing
- Seating and specialist equipment
- Splinting for chronic conditions
- Following an assessment, a variety of therapeutic interventions may be recommended, depending on the capacity of the service and the needs of the child. This may include:
 - Programmes for home / school to implement
 - Advice and strategies to address the identified areas of difficulty
 - Advice on suitable equipment for home or school to purchase to address child's needs.
 - Treatment sessions at home or clinic – these are predominantly offered to children under 5 years and those with a physical disability, for a short period of time. Ongoing direct treatment sessions are not offered.

Involvement of parents / carers and school / nursery (where applicable) is an integral part of the intervention and commitment to this by the parent / carer is essential. Use of advice and strategies will need to be carried out by others who work with the child e.g. parent / carer and school, so please bear this in mind when you refer a child.

Parents in Partnership update: Transition project

PiP (Parents in Partnership) are very pleased to run a Transition Project for parents/carers of young people aged 13 years and upwards. This is to increase awareness of what the transition process is, when it starts and what opportunities are available for your young person once they leave school.

The first four transition sessions will be held in November and December 2020. All the sessions are free and we do hope you can attend as many as possible.

Due to the ongoing Covid-19 restrictions, these sessions will be held online via Zoom or Microsoft Teams. Both of these apps can be downloaded for Android or IOS.

Please let PiP know if you have any difficulty accessing Zoom or Microsoft Teams and they will do their best to help you.

Please contact Tansy Muller at PiP at tansy.muller@pipcroydon.com to let her know which of the ten sessions you are interested in attending so you can be sent an invitation to Zoom/Microsoft Teams in a separate email nearer the time.

You are welcome to attend any or all of the sessions but it is important to have your email contact details and which session/s you are hoping to attend so that you are sent the relevant links in good time.

The sessions are as follows.
